 STOCKS ACTIVE AND HIGHER.

The stock market opened with moderate activity and a firm tone, with a fair advance, which it sub-sequently lost and became duli and heavy. The appearance and character of the bank state-ment produced, later, a favorable reaction, market, with unusual activity for Saturday, strengthened and continued so to the close. The leading feature was the continued conflict between the rival cliques operating in Pacific Mail and Northwest common. The fight here intenroyal, equal to any in the history of the Stock Exchange. The young "bear" leader to-day was rather overweighted by his bulkier antagonist, who used his horns to such purpose as to present to his young adversary a very serious dilemma. Northwest opened at 77%, sold later at 77, advanced to 78% and closed 78 a 78%. Pacific Mail advanced to 61%, was forced back to 60%, an d recovered at the close to 61 % a 61 %, with the latest sales at the nigher figure. Excepting in the case of Erie, which was exceptional also otherwise, the other operators seemed inclined to "form a ring" for the great fight in progress and watch the struggle. Erie was in favor early in the day, ad vancing to 33%, but subsequently receded to 33%. Western Union was firm. Hannival and St. Joseph advanced to 3734 and Panama to 84.

In the gold loan market rates ranged in extreme figures from 3 to 7 per cent for carrying, with one $33,394,000; gold balances, $2,317,003; currency balances, $2,625,738. The specie shipment to-day was light. The coin disbursements by the Assistant Treasurer were:-On account of January and March interest, $220,000; on account of 5-20's redeemed, at about six to seven per cent as the recognized rate among the leading houses, although as high as 1-16 commission added to legal interest was paid early in the day, and, after banking nours, balances were pressed at three and four per cent by those anxious to secure the two days' interest. The feeling on the street to-night is one of anticipated ease next week at the furthest regular rates. It is thought by those best able to judge of the ebb and flow of the money tide in this city, that the banks have seen about the last of the receding movement, and will continue to gain in resources for the rest of the season. This is their interpretation of the bank statement. Foreign exchange was dull after the steamer and nominally steady.

WHEN THE BAND BEGINS TO PLAY.

for Ten Thousand Dollars Damages Against the Proprietors of Variety Theatres in This

At the opening of the Union Square Theatre, in this city, the management, among other novelties, introduced a lady vocalist, then recently from England, named Annie Adams. This songstress, among other ditties, sang one which became very popular, and was known as "When the Band Begins to Piay." minated here the song soon came into great requi-sition, and especially at the Theatre Comique, where Miss Jennie Hughes entertained large audiences nightly by the naivete manner in which she sang the words and music. Tony Pastor, too, the impressario of the Bowery Opera House, favored the detectable assemblage which hie to his place of resort with this much-renowned song. In the height of the success of "When the Band Begins to Play" the music was forced to stop. An injunction was issued by Judge Frederick W. cation of Edwin James, who claimed that Harry Wall, the English actor, in co-operation with George W. funt, composed the song and had it copyrighted in the year 1871; that it was unlawfully sung in the theatres before-mentioned, and the words and the music were linegally sold by S. T. Gordon & Co., J. L. Peters, C. H. Ditson and Onver Ditson, music publishers in the city of New York. In response to Mr. James' complaint, one of the defendants, Josh Hart, secured the serdecker, to defend his suit, and yesterday Mr. Bowe filed the following answer in reply to the plaintiff's nied the following answer in reply to the plaintiff's complaint:

New York Court of Common Pleas—Harry Wat, Plaintiff, es. Josh Rart and Others, Defendants above named, by Whimam F. Howe, his attorney, showeth that said Josh Hart denies each and every allegation in said complaint of the plaintiff herein—except as hereinalter admitted. And this detendant, Josh Hart, admits that plaintiff is a Britisher and a singlet of queen Victoria of Great Britain, and avers and alleges that inasmuch as plaintiff's demand is for prospective damages it should properly be submitted to the National Board of Arbitation now holding at Geneva. And this defendant denies that the song, "When the Band Begins to Play," was originally composed or written by either plaintiff, the said harry Wall, or said Geo. W. Huni, or by both of them jointly, or that they or either of them were the sole owners or proprietors. And this defendant. Josh Hart, alleges on information that said song, in substance, was song and played under different names, to wit:—"When the Winds Begin to Whistle?" "When the Band Begins to Blow," and other names, for and during a period of about hirty years before the era of the plaintiff and the said George Hunt and Annie Adams; that it was song on the highways and byways of London, the capital of Old England, at the concert saloons and gardens there; by Unicerant venders of the finny tribe, and that its melodious strains were daily dispensed to music-nungry urchins by street hand organs in the city of London long before the maternal originator of said plaintiff ushered him into this mundane sphere. Defendant be dismissed, and that this defendant be decreed the costs of this action.

ARREST OF A HORSE THIEF.

Between three and four o'clock yesterday morning Officer Laurie, while patrolling his post in the village of Yonkers. Westchester county, halted a suspicious individual who was riding a horse, without saddie or bridie, in the direction of New York. Upon being questioned the fellow told such a plausible story that the officer allowed him to proceed unmolested, but, on solver, second thought, concluded to report the circumstances to Sergeant Austin, who was then on duty. The result was that the sub-station at Spurten Duyril was promptly notified of the occurrence by telegraph, and instructed to detain the man and horse when they should put in an appearance. Accordingly the arrest was effected later in the morning, when the equestrian was unable to give a satisfactory account of himself. Subsequently a man named William Dederer called at the Yonkers police station and longed miormation of his having had a horse stolen from his premises during the night, the deand rouged mornaston of his available at a lorse stolen from his premises during the night, the description of which left no doubt that the captured and had was his. The thief, who gave his name as Frank Crawford, alias John Dress, was taken before Justice Seeles, and was by that official fully committed to await the action of the Grand Jury, which meets at White Plains to-morrow.

ROBBING A SHOE STORE.

The Thieves Caught. Some time during Friday night the shoe store N 392 Fourth avenue was broken open and robbed of $200 worth of shoes. Just before daybreak yester-$200 worth of shoes. Just before daybreak yester day morning Officers Brennan and Beam, of the Fourteenth presents, saw two men entering the lancy store No. 222½ Grand street with a truns apiece.
